BREAKOUT SESSION OVERVIEW
ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT MOUNTAIN

Question One: Take a moment to dream. Dream of what this mountain would look like in our community if it honored and reflected God completely. Dream of the ideal and describe what you see.

Areas to Consider: Acting; Advertising; Architecture; Culinary Arts; Dancing; Games; Gardening; Knitting; Music; Painting; Photography; Sculpture; Sports; TV & Movie Production; Woodworking; Writing Literature, Short-Stories, Poetry, Plays, Movie Scripts, etc.

Examples:

1. A community where art in all of its forms is valued, explored, and developed – a Renaissance community on the cutting edge of producing new, excellent and God-honoring art.
2. A community where no movie theater shows films rated above R; where pornography is not readily available; and where sexual-based businesses do not exist.
3. A community where people spend less than two hours a day watching television and instead spend the majority of their “entertainment” time learning or teaching skills, playing games, producing things of value, or exercising.
4. A community where the architecture (house designs, landscapes, parks, city plan, roads, business district, etc.) encourages people to interact with one another.

Questions to Consider:

Questions to Consider:

1. What characteristics or attributes of God would be reflected in this mountain?

---

---

---

---

---

2. What would children, families, singles, elderly, and friends spend their time doing?

---

---

---

---

---

3. What would the average citizen know about literature, art, dance, music, sports, etc.?

---

---

---

---

4. What values or principles would art convey? How would art that failed to convey these principles be received?

---

---

---

---

5. What resources would be available in the community, i.e. museums, classes, evening activities, plays, etc.?

---

---

---

---

Question Two: Now that you have defined your ideal (or parts of it), imagine that you had all the power necessary to realize your dream. What steps would you take to get from where we are to where you want us to be? Remember: You are still dreaming, so do not limit your list in anyway.

Examples:

1. Have 10% of all local churches donate to ministries or sponsor initiatives that produce God-honoring art.
2. Host quarterly conferences where aspiring artists or athletes can learn from experienced and Biblically grounded experts in their fields.
3. Ensure that for every film released that does not honor God there is one that does.
4. Eliminate the sale of pornography within the community.

MEDIA MOUNTAIN

Question One: Take a moment to dream. Dream of what this mountain would look like in our community if it honored and reflected God completely. Dream of the ideal and describe what you see.

Areas to Consider: Internet (Blogs, RSS Feeds, Online Newspapers, Podcasts, Web Portals); Print (Books, Journals, Magazines, Newsletters, Newspapers, Pamphlets); Radio; Television & Film (Documentaries; News Broadcasts; All-day Coverage)

Examples:

1. A community where journalists have a Biblical worldview, stellar integrity, and a keen hunger to find and report the truth – no matter where it leads.
2. A community where media strives to educate the public instead of entertain or polarize them.
3. A community where media sets the example for civil discourse – a discourse that does not permit fallacious attacks, poor logic, or the silencing of another perspective.
4. A community where government does not threaten or intimidate the media.
5. A community where the public respects the media.

Questions to Consider:

1. What characteristics or attributes of God would be reflected in this mountain?

---

---

---

---

---

2. What standards or criteria would be used to judge the media's work? How would the media be held accountable to these standards?

---

---

---

---

---

3. What interaction would children, families, singles, elderly, and the general community have with the media?

---

---

---

---

---

4. What would journalist students learn in their college courses?

---

---

---

---

5. How would specialized information be made more readily available to the public?

---

---

---

---

Question Two: Now that you have defined your ideal (or parts of it), imagine that you had all the power necessary to realize your dream. What steps would you take to get from where we are to where you want us to be? Remember: You are still dreaming, so do not limit your list in anyway.

Examples:

1. On every key issue impacting the community, write a letter to the editor or take out an advertisement to present the Biblical position.
2. Ensure that at least 10% of all media staff is Christian and has a solid Biblical worldview.
3. Hold bi-annual training seminars for those interested in pursuing or strengthening a God-honoring career in journalism.
4. Have 10% of all local churches fund programs designed to create a God-honoring media.
5. Repeal and/or resist all legislation supporting the tenants of the "Fairness Doctrine".

CHURCH MOUNTAIN

Question One: Take a moment to dream. Dream of what this mountain would look like in our community if it honored and reflected God completely. Dream of the ideal and describe what you see.

Areas to Consider: Discipleship; Prophetic Voice; Service (esp. to widows, orphans, infirm, imprisoned, and voiceless)

Examples:

1. A community where the church presents a unified front to the non-believing world – where it is known more as “The Church at Colorado Springs or Littleton” than “First this” or “Christian Church that”.
2. A community where every follower of Christ operates from a strong Biblical worldview and strives to learn more about God and His creation.
3. A community where the Church loves and provides for “the least of these” through a model that seeks to stabilize and raise up the struggling instead of keeping them in a cycle of poverty, ignorance, etc.
4. A community where the Church winsomely yet firmly stands for the Truth.
5. A community where the Church is respected and valued – where the community embraces it as a viable segment of society instead of being fearful, skeptical, or cynical toward it.

Questions to Consider:

1. What characteristics or attributes of God would be reflected in this mountain?

---

---

---

---

---

2. What would each follower of Christ look like (i.e. character, service, Biblical understanding, etc.)? What would “The Church at Colorado Springs or Littleton” look like?

---

---

---

---

---

3. What would non-believers, even those vehemently opposed to the message of Christ, say about the Church? (Read Titus for ideas.)

---

---

---

---

---

4. What responsibilities would the Church reclaim from the mountain of Law and Government? Education? Healthcare? Welfare?

---

---

---

---

---

5. In what ways would churches and para-church organizations cooperate?

---

---

---

---

---

Question Two: Now that you have defined your ideal (or parts of it), imagine that you had all the power necessary to realize your dream. What steps would you take to get from where we are to where you want us to be? Remember: You are still dreaming, so do not limit your list in anyway.

Examples:

1. Incorporate worldview training in every church program, sermon, class, etc.
2. Institute mentoring programs whereby every Church member has a father/mother (someone older in the faith to mentor them), a sister/brother (someone walking the road at the same general stage), and a daughter/son (someone they can mentor faith).
3. Hold at least two city-wide Church events a year where all the churches come together to pray, worship, fellowship and serve.
4. Create a network (website, listserv, etc.) for all pastors and para-church ministry leaders to easily communicate
5. Eliminate the desire for the Affordable Care Act, government run welfare programs, and ENDA-like legislation. Enact state Religious Freedom Acts like the federal Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act (RIPA) and Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA).

Question One: Take a moment to dream. Dream of what this mountain would look like in our community if it honored and reflected God completely. Dream of the ideal and describe what you see.

Areas to Consider: Marriage; Parenting; Procreation; Adoption; Caring for Family Members (Elderly, Infirm, Destitute, Orphaned)

Examples:

1. A community where natural marriage is honored and revered as a blessing and gift.
2. A community where every pregnancy ends naturally either through birth or miscarriage.
3. A community where every child is raised by his or her married mother and father.
4. A community where parents take an active and God-honoring role in educating and raising their children.
5. A community where intergenerational living is widely accepted, especially where it serves to care for the infirm and elderly.

Questions to Consider:

1. What characteristics or attributes of God would be reflected in this mountain?

---

---

---

---

---

2. What would a husband, a wife, a father, a mother, a child, a grandparent, an uncle, and a single look like in our community? How would they understand their role as a family member?

---

---

---

---

---

3. What would happen to orphans and widows in our community?

---

---

---

---

---

4. What would be different about the rest of our society to ensure that family is prioritized over most of the other mountains?

---

---

---

---

5. What responsibilities would the Family reclaim from the mountain of Law and Government? Education? Healthcare? Welfare?

---

---

---

---

Question Two: Now that you have defined your ideal (or parts of it), imagine that you had all the power necessary to realize your dream. What steps would you take to get from where we are to where you want us to be? Remember: You are still dreaming, so do not limit your list in anyway.

Examples:

1. Change the expectation that women must start their careers in their 20s. Allow them to focus on raising a family first and then entering the working world, if they so desire.
2. Offer services to university student moms/wives to enable them to continue studying even while starting a family.
3. Provide a mentoring couple for each newly engaged and married couple to help them through the hard times, to answer questions, to assist them with parenting, etc.
4. Restore in the mountains of art, entertainment and media the idea that marriage is beneficial and amazing.
5. Repeal any laws, regulations, or judicial opinions that provide for abortion, adultery, divorce, same-sex marriage, prostitution, etc.

Areas to Consider: Agriculture; Banking; Entrepreneurship; Industry; Investment & Securities; Management; Service Industry

Examples:

1. A community where every product produced or service offered honors God by being safe, morally upstanding, and of the highest quality.
2. A community where business sets the standard for good stewardship of human, financial, real, and environmental capital.
3. A community where business trains its employees to understand the business and how the business impacts the local community; encourages its employees to be innovative; and treats its employees well.
4. A community where business takes ownership over keeping the unemployment rate low by constantly looking for gleaning opportunities.
5. A community where the economy is not dependent upon covetousness and discontentment in the populace and where work is honored and enjoyed.

Questions to Consider:

1. What characteristics or attributes of God would be reflected in this mountain?

---

---

---

---

---

2. What would your business model look like if it sought to balance good stewardship, healthy relationships, and contentment with profit and productivity?

---

---

---

---

---

3. What would an employee, a citizen, a child, a retiree think of the local business community?

---

---

---

---

---

4. In what ways could your business provide jobs, training or support to the unemployed, the ex-convict, the mentally disabled, the homeless, etc.?

---

---

---

---

---

5. What types of business would be required to create a sustainable local economy?

---

---

---

---

---

Question Two: Now that you have defined your ideal (or parts of it), imagine that you had all the power necessary to realize your dream. What steps would you take to get from where we are to where you want us to be? Remember: You are still dreaming, so do not limit your list in anyway.

Examples:

1. Require all recipients of welfare and unemployment benefits to fulfill a certain number of training and work hours a week. Offer training on basic job skills. Offer work opportunities that benefit the community (cleanup, tutoring, spending time with the elderly, etc.)
2. Institute a city-wide "Code of Ethics" for all business operating within the community. Encourage the businesses to report on how they have satisfied the Code every quarter.
3. Train business leaders about better stewardship. Show them how to utilize all of the various aspects of their production for the benefit of society (i.e. instead of throwing furniture away when remodeling an office, give it to a local ministry or school).
4. Start businesses in poorer areas of town with the intention of hiring those who normally have a hard time getting a job (ex-convicts, prostitutes, etc.). Train them.
5. Repeal legislation that places an undue tax burden on business owners. Consider implementing a "Fair Tax" scheme to minimize barriers to growth.
